Morris Gordon Company
Boston, MA
27 February 2021

In 1887, Morris and Jennie Gordon founded a retail hardware business in Boston Massachusetts, which they named, Morris Gordon Co. Over a period of about thirty years, the business transitioned to a wholesale operation. In 1919, Morris Gordon Co. issued a catalog of the wholesale hardware items they offered. At that time, their operation was in a five-story building at 83 - 101 North Street. Albert I. Gordon entered the business after completing service in the Navy during World War I.

In 1921 the company name was changed to Morris Gordon & Son, Inc. Morris died in 1924, and Albert became the president. Albert expanded the business into the food service industry, selling kitchen equipment installations. Around 1933 the company moved to 112 Sudbury Street. When Albert Gordon died in 1953, his sons, Hugh and Morris II, moved into executive positions within Morris Gordon & Son, Inc.

In 1955, Morris Gordon & Son, Inc. purchased the venerable Boston supply house, Jones, McDuffee & Stratton. Hugh became president of the J. M. & S division, while Morris became president of the Morris Gordon division.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, as part of an urban renewal plan for Boston's north End, forced the closure and ultimate demolition of the Morris Gordon and Son building on Sudbury Street. This was preceded by an auction of the contents that would not be moved to the new building at 221 - 223 North Beacon Street in Brighton. The new building opened in April, 1962.

By 1972 both sections of the company became part of the Food Service Equipment & Design Corp. In 1977 Morris Gordon & Son, Inc. was acquired by Rykoff-Sexton. Morris Gordon II died February 6, 2013.

Morris Gordon Co. is known to have been a distributor for a number of well-known American china manufacturers, including Carr China, Jackson China, McNicol China and Sterling China. If "& Sons Inc" is on the backstamp, it dates the china to 1921 and later.

McNicol China supplied many pieces for customers of Morris Gordon. Most of the crests are one color transfers, but at least two customers, the Mount Washington Hotel, and Howard Johnson's, had decal crests. A number of the patterns are non-crested, and were probably stock patterns sold by Morris Gordon.

A 1960s postcard view of The Olde Board Restaurant is identical to the center image on the china, including the three evergreen trees.

Born Hersh Baraznik, Harry E. Burroughs was a Russian immigrant who worked as a newsboy in Boston. A 1914 graduate of Suffolk Law School, he founded the H. E. Burroughs Newsboys Foundation in 1927 to aid young working boys, and in 1936, he opened a summer camp for them at West Poland Maine. In 1944, he wrote a book , “Boys in men’s shoes: A world of working children” available for reading at Hathitrust.org. Burroughs died at age 56 in 1946, and his obituary notice appears in the Boston Globe, December 19, 1946 on page 21.

SCENE FROM OUR WINDOW

A favorite attraction for natives and tourists alike, the famous old Boston Fish Pier offers an atmosphere of enchantment that is like stepping into another world. Here are picturesque people, ships and scenes that echo centuries of courageous industry, bring the abundant health and pleasure of fresh seafoods from the briny depths.

Past blends with present, as brawny young seamen and workers toil with hardy, leather-skinned "old salts." Everywhere there is action: Loading, unloading . . . carting, calling . . . swabbing, hauling. There's work and more work to be done . . . and strong, willing hands to do it . . . while sharp-eyed seagulls excitedly wheel and cry overhead, intent upon their inevitable share of the catch.

And beyond, across the harbor, we look with pride at large and small units of the mighty United States Navy. Some at rest for repair or supply; others alert and ready for their next task . . . while great ocean liners enter and leave the harbor.

This is truly a thrilling sight that never fails to brighten the eye and quicken the heart. For all about us, American tradition is being faithfully carried forward from past generations by skilled and worthy men of the sea.

JIMMY'S

HARBOR SIDE RESTAURANT

Boston Globe: Friday August 12, 1955

A true waterfront restaurant venue that in fact operated for 80 years, Jimmy's closed in 2005, and the building demolished in 2007 for redevelopment. Boston lost a renowned seafood and chowder house.

Something New and Wonderful has happened at Jimmy's HARBORSIDE RESTAURANT AT BOSTON FISH PIER Overlooking Historic Boston Harbor

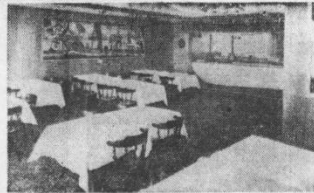

WE HAVE HAD OUR FOURTH ADDITION!

At the left is the new entrance to "JIMMY'S." Through these doors will enter the hungriest people in Boston. And when they leave they will be more of "JIMMY'S" satisfied customers. This entrance also leads to the Marina Cocktail Lounge and Bar where Boston's most wonderful view of the harbor can be enjoyed as you sip your favorite cocktail before dinner.

THE BOAT THAT NEVER GOES TO SEA. "Jimmy's," christened recently carries out the nautical motif as you enter the new Jimmy's Restaurant. A full sized boat used as a bar where you can look out into Boston Harbor and actually feel that she's aloft. There is adequate waiting and sitting room for those who do not desire a cocktail.

The second floor dining room and Pilot House with a dory as a bar and a painting of a trawler adorning one side will be used for private parties and is used daily for those who like to eat "top-side." Seating capacity of 80 for luncheon or dinner and more than a 100 for party set-ups.

On West Pearl Street -- DOWNTOWN NASHUA

The "New Look" of the imposing front of the Modern Hotel, recently renovated, on West Pearl Street reflects the traditional warmth and charming atmosphere of each of the three dining rooms and the friendly mood of the "Keg Room" and "Ye Olde White Horse Tavern Lounge"

THE COUNTRY KITCHEN is one of the three dining rooms of the renovated Modern Restaurant. Here you will find that the low prices and fine food that has made the "Modern" famous in this area still prevail. The decor of the Revere Room and Heritage Room also reflect an atmosphere of pleasant dining.

"YE OLDE WHITE HORSE TAVERN LOUNGE" of the Modern Hotel is unmatched for its hospitable atmosphere and has already become a favorite meeting place for relaxation of many of Nashua's businessmen and women.
